King Family

The information we have on the King family, is very little. We know the ancestor, Wesley Henry King, was born in Watertown, Jefferson County, New York in 1804. On the 1850 census report for Washington County Arkansas, he is listed as age 47. He married first Sarah/Sally Reed, daughter of William Reed. Wesley and the Reeds moved to Arkansas at some point in time where Sally and Wesley were married in 1827. They had five children, and she died about 1834. He married next Evaline Holt, who was 14 years old at the time of her marriage. They had thirteen children. I am attempting to unlock the family mysteries, such as who was Wesley's father? We believed he came to America from Scotland in the late 1700's, but more recent evidence indicates they were in Canada as early as the 1600's.

The Kings and the Reeds continued to intermarry throughout the years, as you will see in this report.

An interesting trait of the King men, in the line of Wesley Henry King, is their flaming red hair. Nearly every man born into this King family, has red hair.

1833 according to a citation in Goodspeed, page 629. He was supposed to have been listed in the 1850 Census in Pulaski County, page 153. With one Joseph Walton, Solomon King furnished security in the 1837 Pulaski County settlement of Washington G. Walton's estate. Solomon was also said to have owned one male and one female slave.

In an interview in "800 Missouri Families", Volume Three, his informant, Cecil Benson (a grandson of Solomon King) stated that "King family came down the St. Lawrence on a keelboat. They came to North — uh, upstate New York. They come down from Canada into New York."

According to the Rolla Express newspaper of Rolla, Missouri on 24 Jun 1861, Solomon King of Rolla was one of some 63 men who took an Oath of Allegiance to support the Constitution of the United States.

4. WESLEY HENRY^{2} KING (King^{1})^{5,6} was born March 1804 in Watertown, Jefferson, New York, and died November 23, 1870 in Cane Hill, Washington, Arkansas. He married (1) SALLY REED^{9,10} December 25, 1827 in Batesville, Independence County, AR, daughter of WILLIAM REED and MARGARET ROBERTSON. She was born August 19, 1811 in Louisville KY, and died Abt. 1834. He married (2) EVALINE HOLT November 1836, daughter of JACK HOLT and ELIZABETH POGUE. She was born December 28, 1821 in Alabama, and died April 22, 1908 in Cane Hill, Washington, Arkansas.

Notes for WESLEY HENRY KING: "............undoubtedly of English origin and perhaps came from England as a lad. Older family members think there were two sisters also, but there is nothing definite enough to state with any degree of accuracy. He came to Arkansas, along with William Reed and his family when they came from Kentucky in 1825; stopped a bit at Batesville, Arkansas, and came on to Cane Hill as one of the seven original families to form the settlement of Boonesboro, later re-named Cane Hill. His first wife was Sally Reed, William Reed's oldest child, and by this union there were five children. The marriage record says "Westley King and Sarah Reed." (Sally was a common nickname for Sarah)

Following her death he was wed to Evaline Elizabeth Holt, in November 1836. Eveline was not quite 15 when this marriage took place. She came to be a mother of four step children, the oldest not quite five years her junior! In spite of her age, she was a young lady of considerable aplomb........"

A History of the HOLT FAMILY in WASHINGTON COUNTY ARKANSAS by Ruth Holt Payne and Mrs. Burlene Hilton Notes for EVALINE HOLT: She and Wesley King made their home at Fly Creek, Arkansas.

"........Eveline was not quite 15 when this marriage took place. She came to be a mother of four step children, the oldest not quite five years her junior! In spite of her age, she was a young lady of considerable aplomb.

"She had already attended the Young Ladies' Female Seminary at Cane Hill, where the young ladies from Boston, who had established this institution instilled culture in the bosoms of the young women in the area. The accounts of Eveline's exploits are legion. Her stamina which was to stand her in good stead throughout her life, is reflected in such stories as the one of her swimming across the river in Alabama where she was born and lived until their removal to Tennessee and then to Arkansas. Another, of the slaughter of thirteen rattlesnakes with a brother seconding her efforts.

"Having thirteen children of her own, and having reared a total of nineteen, she was oblivious to almost anything that would alarm her. During her long life she was an incessant reader. Stories are told of her granddaughters combing and dressing her hair by the hour, literally, while she read, completely oblivious to

http://home.earthlink.net/~herblst/king_family.htm 3/1/2005
them. As a result, they always adored her. Her sternest rebuke was to say "Tut tut!"

"She always loved beauty. Flowers were for her almost a necessity and even in the winter months, she would use dried things dusted with flour, to decorate her bedroom. For a fruitful life, there could be no better example. Her activities were in no wise confined to her family circle which was large enough to have occupied most women-------but she was constantly in demand as a midwife. There were almost no medical facilities and her husband, who acted as a doctor and a dentist, among other things, was also in demand. She was his assistant in much that he did. At her death, she had 70 grandchildren and many great grandchildren, also a few great great grandchildren. Hers is the only family to date, in the year 1960, to reach into the eighth generation from the original family of Jack and Elizabeth Holt------the children of Bobby Howard and Teda Jean Howard Braly. The Kings also have the largest number of descendants." from "A History of the HOLT FAMILY in WASHINGTON COUNTY ARKANSAS by Ruth Holt Payne and Mrs. Burlene Hilton"

Comment by Clara E. Kendrick: This was my Great-Grandmother. Down by the ever-running mountain spring on Fly Creek, she had a hole of water where she used to duck her children when they disobeyed her commands. Cold or hot, she went to this spring every morning for her refreshing wash, before she ate breakfast, and always brought back a fresh bucket of water to make her coffee. "Never use water that has stood over night", she said, "because it has lost its savor." Grandmother King is the only person I have ever heard tell about the Falling Stars. She said: "I saw it rain stars from above on November 13, 1833, from about 4 in the morning until daylight. Some folks were frightened, thinking the world was coming to an end." Grandmother King said her mother was sick and had called her out of her sleep. When she saw the stars coming down, she called other members of her family, to see the ground covered with stars. "You could not pick them up," she said; "They were just like air bubbles, bright in color, spots which lasted until daybreak." When a child, I thought she was just telling us fairytales. Later in life I found an account of the falling of the stars in a history book, date and time just like Grandmother had told us.

His family reached up and down Fly Creek, east and west, north to Fayetteville and south to the top of Skylight and Hale Mountain. He helped to feed and clothe many folks besides his own immediate family. He taught all of us children not to be satisfied doing our work as good as the other fellow but to always try to do it just a little better. And that was his teaching and his every-day practice until his last day among the living.

She was born July 08, 1863 in Chamois, Osage County, Missouri.

Notes for SILAS WILLIAM KING: From his photographs, Silas King was a strongly built man with large hands and apparently considerable physical strength. Jim Holmes stated in 1996 that Silas was born and raised in a log cabin on Brusher Creek on a site that in later years was occupied by the Headquarters building of Fort Leonard Wood near Lebanon in LaClede County, Missouri. When he took up his own farm, it was between Rubidoux and Rock Creeks near Houston, Texas County, Missouri. This location information was provided by his grandson, William Edward "Ed" King. (Texas County was largely depopulated during the Civil War and nearly all of the existing buildings had been burned by the war's end.)

"Branded as Rebels" by Eakin and Hale has the following entry with respect to Silas King:

King, Silas. With Anderson. He was at Fayette, [Missouri,] September 20, 1864; Centralia, [Missouri,] September 27, 1864. He was from Clay County, [Missouri.] He went to Texas with George Shepard and died of a fever at Sherman, Texas about December 25, 1864, some two weeks after accidentally shooting Perry Smith. Ref: Edwards; CSRJC; Trow; Block; Brownlee; 'Liberty Tribune', June 21, 1901.

"Noted Guerrillas" by Edwards has some ten references to Silas King:

He is mentioned as one of a troop of twelve guerrillas detailed under Archie Clements on 15 Sep 1864 to charge a company of Federal militia near Boonville, Missouri, and then retreat so as to entice the Federals into an ambush. However, this troop failed to follow their orders. Instead the thirteen men converted their sham attack into a real one and charged the 76 Federals, killing some 23 of them and capturing forty horses in a four mile pursuit. ("Noted Guerrillas," page 244)

Silas King was wounded shortly after eleven in the morning of 20 Sep 1864 in failed attempt by Quantrell, Anderson, Todd, Poole and Stuart and their respective companies to take the Federals fortified in the courthouse and other buildings of Fayette, Missouri. ("Noted Guerrillas," page 291)

A week later on 27 Sep 1864, Silas King was one of 61 men in Anderson's company at Centralia, Missouri. They arrived around ten in the morning, and decided to wait for the eleven o'clock train from Saint Louis. The intervening hour was employed by levying contributions up the citizens and taking what they wanted from the stores. The train arrived on time and halted at the depot. It had both private citizens and a number of Federal troops on it, some armed and some going home on furlough. Some of the armed Federals recognized Bill Anderson and fired. The fight was brief and ineffectual, and was followed by a quick waving of white handkerchiefs in surrender. The surviving 24 troops and one civilian who was wearing a soldier's blouse were lined up, made to strip off their uniforms for the use of the guerrillas and then killed by Archie Clements at Anderson's command to "Muster them out." Following this, Anderson took his company to a Mr. Singleton's pasture, some four miles southeast of Centralia where they had stayed the previous night. A Major Johnson, in command of some a three hundred strong Federal garrison based at Paris in Monroe County, Missouri, arrived after Anderson's troop had left town. These Federals were flying the black flag.
instead of the stars and stripes in token that no quarter would be given. Johnson's people followed on quickly and arrived in the vicinity of Singleton's barn about four in the afternoon. The guerrillas, who numbered 262 men in the four companies, had retired to the timber to await the on-coming Federals. A feint by ten guerrilla skirmishers under Thrailkill caused the inexperienced Federal troops to charge forward in disorder. When they came into view of the waiting guerrilla line of battle, they halted to reform their ranks and to receive the rebel charge while halted, a foolish tactic particularly as their weapons were single shot while the guerrillas were universally armed with multiple revolving pistols. The guerrillas dismounted, checked their weapons and horses, remounted and then charged at about five in the afternoon. Some 60 Federals managed to break out of the melee and attempt to escape, but were followed by Jesse James and four others who managed to kill 52 of them. All in all, 282 of Johnson's three hundred died that day.

Silas King was named as one of thirty men commanded by Arch Clements to be a rear-guard and impede the pursuit by some one thousand Federal troops accompanied by six gun battery. This rear guard fought multiple actions over a twenty-five mile distance, killing some 37 Federals and wounding 88 more. The rear guard had four wounded and four more had their horses killed during this day's fighting.

Notes for CLARINDA BRYANT: Clarinda apparently died after a long illness - possibly cancer? However, the death records from Texas County, Missouri said that Clarinda died from 'crampy colic' with a duration of 5 hours. The speculation is that this may have been a ruptured appendix.

His sister, Ada Rinehart, says that he and Tom King and her husband, Dick Rinehart had the first feed store in Lincoln which was in the rear of the post office. "Judge," Tom and Dick were in partnership in the only flour mill Lincoln ever boasted. They manufactured a brand called "Flavo." Judge also had a general merchandise store, and Ora Starr Hilton clerked there. Notes for EVA CLARK STEPHENS: Eva Clark Stephens King Hicks was raised by her grandparents, William and Martha Stephens after the death of her parents. She was raised very STRICT Presbyterian. On Sundays she was only allowed to go to church, eat and be quiet. She couldn't even whistle. Her Grandmother did absolutely everything for her all her years with her. She fixed her hair, cooked for her, etc. When she married Roy King they had to cut her hair as it was too full of tangles, etc. and had never been cut and she did not know how to fix it herself. She had never peeled a potato. She was 15 when she married Roy and 16 when Harlie was born.

As told by Joe Dirigo: "Although I do not remember much about my maternal grandmother, I do recall a few stories and facts told me by my mother, Wilma. It seems that after Grandfather King's death, in 1918, Grandmother King opened a restaurant in Dearing Kansas. She also had a room and board business, in addition to the restaurant. I am told she worked long and hard to make the business a success and provide a home for her children. I recall the story about Grandma, that her next door neighbors had a cow that had a habit of getting out of its pasture and getting into the King's garden. The neighbors didn't speak English and were difficult to communicate with. On several occasions, Grandma had caught the cow and returned it, asking them to please keep the cow out of her garden. Finally having caught the cow again, she took the cow back to the neighbors one last time. Only this time she took with her a small "Pet Milk" can and a .32 caliber pistol. After she handed the cow over to the neighbors, she took the milk can and placed it on top of a nearby fence post. She then produced the pistol and quickly shot the can off the post, to demonstrate her skills with the pistol. She then pointed the pistol at the cow and pretended to shoot it. After that she put the pistol back in her pocket and returned home. The cow never got into the King's garden again."

Another story. "Mother also tells of the 'early days' when rifle ammunition was scarce and expensive, and the King boys were only given one .22 caliber rifle cartridge, and expected to come back with either a rabbit or a squirrel for the dinner or breakfast table."

Died in 1948, of cancer.

Children of Wesley King and Eva Stephens are:

i. James Harlie King, b. July 25, 1900, Hubbard AR; d. March 22, 1982, Lynnwood WA.

Notes for James Harlie King: Harlie came home from WWI in May, 1919 a month before his sister, Thelma, was born. He had been in a French hospital suffering from amnesia "shell shock". The French awarded Harlie the "French Croix de Guerra" for bravery in battle.

49. ii. Charles Samuel King, Sr., b. December 03, 1903, Prairie Grove AR; d. March 22, 1982, Lynnwood WA.

50. iii. Wilma Frances King, b. March 06, 1908, Coffeyville AR; d. September 1993, Beerryville AR.

52. v. Eva Thelma King, b. June 02, 1919, Dearing KS.

40. Lucy Vera King (James Henry, Wesley Henry, King) was born July 31, 1892 in Prairie Grove AR, and died October 30, 1977 in Fayetteville AR. She married Thomas Edward Taylor September 28, 1922. He was born April 12, 1894 in Devil's Den AR, and died January 14, 1982 in Fayetteville AR.

Notes for Lucy Vera King: A letter written by Lucy to her niece Thelma, May 23, 1977, shortly before she died:

Dear Thelma and Ralph (Thelma's husband)),

We have had some rain, but we need rain. Our garden isn't doing much good. The sun is shining pretty this morning. I hope you and family are feeling well. We are about as usual here. We have some pretty roses. The honeysuckle was pretty, but are about all gone. They are red. The grass and weeds grow so fast.

Have you had much stormy weather? We haven't. The azalea had one bloom on it so I guess the cold weather killed the buds. Our peach trees did not have any blooms. The apple trees had quite a lot of blooms when your father and mother were married. I was seven years old July 31st and they were married August 9th. I don't remember much about it. They married at a small place called Hubbard. I think they said it is about 5 miles from here. I do not know where they were married. I guess at your Grandfather and Grandmother's Stephens by a Presbyterian minister by the name of Knox. He also married Jay and Eliza.

3/1/2005
I expect your Grandmother cooked the dinner or supper whichever it was and they came over here the next day and Grandfather and Grandmother Abshier came and your Uncle Hal Stephens. I don't remember if any one else. They stayed here a little while and then moved upon the mountain I guess 1/2 mile from here. Uncle Johnny Reed owned the place and they moved to Hubbard after that and that is where Harlie was born. I don't remember what your father did there, but went to Prairie Grove after that and that is where Charlie was born. They lived in Fayetteville and Lincoln a while and then went up in Kansas I think. I guess you know all the places in Kansas they lived. You and Wilma were born in Dearing and Fred in Coffeyville. I think they lived in Alberta, Canada twice.

Wilma was a baby there. If I could see you I could tell you more. I hope you can come up this Summer.

Love to all, Your Aunt Lucy

Obituary for Lucy King Taylor, written by Conrow Miller:

Lucy King Taylor 1892 - 1977

On Sunday morning at WRMC, I lost a dear friend as well as a close relative, when Lucy King Taylor passed away after a brief illness. She was the only daughter of the late Jim and Fanny King. Born on Fly Creek, she was reared and educated in that community and spent all her life there other than a brief sojourn in Van Buren. She was 85 last July.

She is survived by her husband, Tom Taylor, two sons, James of Tulsa and Francis of Fly Creek and a daughter Valera of Fly Creek. There are five grand-children who also survive.

The last rites were held in the Cane Hill Presbyterian Church with which her family, the Kings, have been connected since pioneer days. Indeed, her grandparents were charter members of the church when it was organized in 1827. The services were conducted by the Rev. Ralph Thiesse with Adron Benton singing. Burial was in the Reese Cemetery where her parents as well as other relatives lie.

She was a lover of nature and had a way with flowers and shrubs, which she had planted all over the grounds of her home, which was her ancestral place. She was also the family historian and had gathered a tremendous amount of the King history after years of research. We had planned to produce a history of our Kings, now unless I do it alone, I suppose it will not be done.

Your Aunt Lucy

42. LAURA EVALINE REED (MARTHA ANN KING, WESLEY HENRY², KING¹)⁵²⁹,⁵³⁰ was born 1860, and died Aft. 1959. She married ROBINSON MCCALEB⁵³¹,⁵³².

Notes for LAURA EVALINE REED: Comment by Clara E. Kendrick: This was my own Mother's only own sister — my Aunt Laura. She was the wife of Robertson McCabe and the mother of seven children. She lived to have her picture taken with five generations of her family, which is very unusual. I took her last picture on October 5, 1959 when she was 99 years old. She never complained of her tasks. She was an obedient wife and a working mother.

Notes for ROBINSON MCCALEB: Comments by Clara E. Kendrick: Uncle Robinson married my mother's oldest sister. He was a wonderful person, a worker in his church and in his Masonic Lodge. He was a good husband, father and neighbor. He was loved by all who knew him and was called "Uncle Robinson" for miles around. He operated a produce business in Stillwell, Oklahoma for many years. He and Aunt Laura celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary, which I attended with a great thrill, along with many others of his relatives.

Child of LAURA REED and ROBINSON MCCALEB is:

55. i. Verna⁵ MCCALEB.

43. AMY KING⁴ REED (MARTHA ANN³ KING, WESLEY HENRY², KING¹)⁵³³,⁵³⁴ was born Abt. 1862⁵³⁵,⁵³⁶. She married (1) BOB SIMPSON⁵³⁷,⁵³⁸ Abt. 1883. She married (2) LORENZO FREEMAN Abt. 1885.

Children of AMY REED and BOB SIMPSON are:

56. i. CLARA⁵ SIMPSON.

ii. T. SIMPSON⁵³⁹,⁵⁴⁰.

iii. L. D. SIMPSON⁵⁴¹,⁵⁴².

44. HIRAM LEONARD⁴ KING (SILAS WILLIAM³, HIRAM², KING¹) was born February 04, 1867 in Houston, Texas, MO, and died June 11, 1929 in Charlotte, Independence County, Arkansas. He married (1) UNKNOWN. She was born Abt. 1867. He married (2) MARTHA CAROLINE TARWATER May 05, 1892 in Sharp, Independence County, Arkansas, daughter of JAMES TARWATER and FRANCES RISLEY. She was born June 15, 1867 in Marion Co., AR, and died September 10, 1935 in Charlotte, Independence County, Arkansas.

Notes for HIRAM LEONARD KING: Hiram lost his right leg below the knee about 1916 due to being kicked by a mule that he was trying to harness. The break was a compound break which means that the broken end of the bone protruded through the skin. This nearly always results in the victim being infected and in the days before antibiotics, commonly led to a case of gangrene and death. Hiram's doctor treated him with the best treatment available — he amputated the leg above the break. An amputation performed in antiseptic conditions might seem drastic, but it had the benefit of being far less likely to lead to infection and gangrene. After his leg had healed, Hiram himself manufactured the wooden leg that he used for the rest of his life.

In his later years, Hiram spent more time playing the fiddle and became proficient enough to compete in some of the "old time fiddlers" contests held around the region.

According to Jim Holmes in an interview in Jul 2000, Hiram met Caroline while he was working as a hired farm hand harvesting corn after he first came to Arkansas. Following the finish of the harvest, he returned to Missouri, but in a few months returned, proposed and was accepted.

Notes for MARTHA CAROLINE TARWATER: William Edward "Ed" King, Martha's son, stated that Martha was half Indian. Ralph King (another son) confirmed her Indian ancestry and further stated that her tribal descent was Cherokee. This tends to be borne out by facial characteristics of her children and descendents.

At least one verbal source believed that her maiden name was Risley instead of Tarwater. Another verbal source thought that she had been raised by a family named Risley after the death of her parents. It is unknown whether she was adopted legally. However, in my opinion that this story applies to Martha’s mother, Frances, since we know Martha’s immediate ancestry and that she was still living with her parents at age 13 in Jacksonport, Jackson County, Arkansas as shown in the 1880 census. Her mother’s ancestry is another matter however. We don’t know what Frances’ maiden surname was or for sure where she was raised, although Marion County, Arkansas would seem to be a good bet on the latter.

Part of the problem of establishing American Indian ancestry for Martha and her mother Frances probably stems from the prevailing attitudes in the period following the Civil War in the central United States that Indians (who didn’t become United States citizens until around 1920) or “half-breeds” were very much on the bottom of the social pecking order along with Negroes. This led to many Indians and “half-breed” people simply refusing to disclose their ancestry to others and a sense of shame concerning their ancestry.

Jane Anderson [maiden name Willie Jane Self] related the family legend that Martha’s parents or grandparents crossed the Mississippi at Cape Girardeau, Missouri when they traveled the “Trail of Tears” which is consistent with the known history of that sad episode. Martha’s mother was supposed to be Irish or of Irish extraction and her father Cherokee. They settled on the north side of the Buffalo River in North Arkansas. Again, I believe that this tale has been shifted by a generation and really applies to Frances, Martha’s mother since the 1860, 1870 and 1880 census all report Martha’s birthplace, as Arkansas which doesn’t square with having emigrated from Tennessee. That is, I believe that Frances’s parents were the Cherokee father and the Irish mother, neither of whom I’ve been able to identify. We know that Martha’s father, James M. Tarwater, migrated from Knox County, Tennessee where his father Jacob was a prosperous farmer and land owner to Marion County, Arkansas sometime around 1854 with his first wife and some of his children. The first wife died sometime before 1860 and James had his mother Margaret living with him at that time. Sometime during the Civil War, James married Frances and their first son together, Abram was born in 1866 and Martha arrived a year later.

Unfortunately, the Marion County courthouse was burned (a common occurrence during the days when wood buildings were heated with fireplaces or wood stoves) in the 1870s and the marriage and other records of the county were lost. Thus it is not possible to determine from the usual sources what Martha’s mother’s maiden name was. Without her maiden name, it is virtually useless to attempt to search for Frances in any other records.

Martha’s grandson, Charles King, related that the country near the Buffalo River was quite wild. On one occasion when Martha (again, I believe this tale actually applies to Frances) was a girl, she heard what she supposed was a woman screaming down by the river. Her father got his rifle, shooed the family into the cabin and then sat outside the front door of the house and told her to stand in the doorway and scream in answer. She did so and was answered with more screams from a closer location. Another scream brought an answer from even closer. When it got within range, her father shot the mountain lioness. It dashed across the yard and into a nearby tree where a second shot killed it. A few days later, a similar event resulted in the shooting of the male of the pair who measured ten feet from nose to tip of its tail.

Marriage Notes for Hiram King and Martha Tarwater: According to family legend, Hiram abruptly left his first wife upon discovering her in a compromising situation with a man in the family home in Texas County, Missouri and moved to Independence County, Arkansas. I don’t yet know whether he simply abandoned her, or if there was a divorce decree prior to his second marriage to Martha Tarwater. I am inclined to believe the latter since Hiram Leonard returned to Missouri for some months after meeting his second wife Caroline Tarwater Burt before returning to marry her -- presumably after straightening out his affairs.

Children of Hiram King and Martha Tarwater are:

57. i. Silas Henry King, b. April 10, 1893, Batesville, Independence, AR; d. October 20, 1938, Batesville, Independence, AR.

Notes for NORAH ETHEL KING: Norah died as the consequence of performing a good deed. According to her nephew, Jim Holmes, Norah nursed a neighbor family named Griffin who were suffering from tuberculosis for several months. Some of them died during that time. About a year later, she was diagnosed with tuberculosis herself and within a year or so died from it. Norah was twenty-two years old when she died.

vi.  ALBERT ARTHUR KING, b. February 20, 1902.

57. SILAS⁵ Henry (Hiram Leonard⁴, Silas William³, Hiram², King¹) was born April 10, 1893 in Batesville, Independence, AR, and died October 20, 1938 in Batesville, Independence, AR. He married NORA WALKER October 13, 1914 in Newark, Independence County, Arkansas. She was born October 30, 1897 in Salado, White County, Arkansas, and died September 11, 1962 in Pocahontas, Randolph County, Arkansas.

Notes for Silas Henry King: A tall lean man with great physical strength, blue eyes and black hair, Silas died of pneumonia at the relatively young age of 45. He was a farmer who had to rent land (not a sharecropper) as he owned none of his own. He suffered from chronic malaria and had to take to his bed for a few days nearly every summer.

In 1938, Silas was working with a crew on the road that passed in front of his home near the "Scotty" school house. He and another man on the crew had been "razzing" each other and engaging in some horse-play which got progressively rougher. Eventually Silas was hit in the back by a shovel full of dirt and rock tossed by the other man and severely bruised. At any rate, he soon developed pneumonia and died within a few days. In hindsight, it seems likely that a rib was broken and his lung was punctured. Keep in mind that this occurred before the advent of effective antibiotics which might have saved him. During his last illness, he was nursed by his wife Nora and by his niece, Lelia Holmes.
Notes for NORA WALKER: Nora was a snuff user and constantly carried a small medicine bottle that she used to spit into.

Nora died a suicide of a self-inflicted pistol shot to the heart. The pistol used was one she had carried in her purse for many years. She had called her son, Charles King, on the phone and asked him to come over to her place. When he arrived, he found her dead with the gun in her hand just inside the front door. Without picking up the pistol or otherwise disturbing the scene, he immediately left the house and called the police to come and investigate. They determined that the death was a suicide.

Nora had an unusual distinction that we may all envy. She arrived late for her own funeral! The funeral home hearse driver got lost on unfamiliar roads enroute from Pocahontas to Mount. Zion. She was buried next to her husband, Silas King, in Mount. Zion Cemetery, Independence County, Arkansas.

Children of Silas King and Nora Walker are:

i. RAY RODMAN 6 KING, b. July 06, 1915.

Notes for Frances Isabelle King: Belle was a large boned woman who possessed considerable physical strength until late in her life. She was an excellent cook who refused to give up her wood fired cast iron kitchen range. She used it all her days even after she had a propane cook stove. To visit her kitchen on a hot summer day was to truly appreciate the conditions under which our grandmothers produced meals for their families.

Notes for ROBERT WAYNE KING: Military service was in the United States Air Force and I was on active duty from 3 March 1966 to 29 October 1978. I went to pilot training at Reese AFB, Texas, washed out and then was trained as an USAF Navigator and Electronic Warfare Officer at Mather AFB, California. I completed Aircrew Survival at Fairchild AFB, Washington and F-105 Wild Weasel training at Nellis AFB, Nevada.

I was then assigned for a few months in South Korea during the period of tension following the seizure of the ship Pueblo. I then went on to Takhi Royal Thai Air Force Base, Thailand where I completed a combat tour with the 333rd Tactical Fighter Squadron. In May 1969, I was transferred to the 12th TFS at Kadena, AB, Okinawa where I spent eighteen months. Much of that time was spent on temporary duty at a forward operating location at Kwang Ju AB, Korea. From there, I was transferred yet again to the 561st TFS at McConnell AFB, Kansas. I remained assigned to that unit while in 1971 I managed to fly a few more combat missions in the interval between flying a an F-105 from the repair facility at Sacramento, California to Khorat RTAFB and returning with another one.

In April 1972, the North Vietnamese crossed the DMZ in strength and the 561st TFS was the first USAF unit deployed to Southeast Asia in response. From a "crank phone call" at 0130 in the morning, in seventy-two hours we deployed half way around the world and had launched our first combat sorties over North Vietnam. I again flew combat missions on a regular basis with a three-week break to ferry a Thud from Khorat to McConnell AFB, California and return with another one. However, in September 1972, I was detailed to return to McConnell AFB, Kansas for duty in the Command Post.

The entire unit was transferred to George AFB, California following the end of United States direct involvement in the war and I went with them. In September of 1973, several of us were sent back to Khorat to return our aircraft to the States and I once again flew across the Pacific in a fighter aircraft for the fifth and last time.
