Notes for MARCUS HENDERSON CRUIKSHANK:

MARCUS HENDERSON CRUIKSHANK was born in Autauga County in 1826. He read law in Talladega under Alexander White and L. E. Parsons (son of Gov. Parsons who practiced law in Talladega), and became a member of the firm in 1847. He was Register in Chancery at one time, mayor of Talladega, and editor of the Talladega Reporter. He represented the district as a member of the House of Representatives of the Confederate States during 1863-1865. He was Commissioner for the relief of the destitute in Alabama after the war. (1)

During the great 1844 political upheaval in the country; Henry Clay as a Presidential candidate for the Whig Party and James Polk as a Democrat, Marcus was a notable Whig in Talladega County. (2)

The Alabama Reporter, a local Talladega paper, was established May 6, 1843, preparatory to the great presidential contest of 1844. In 1855 it was sold to Marcus H. Cruikshank, "A gentlemen of much personal worth and popularity". (3)

Abraham Lincoln declared War by Proclamation April 15, 1861. Mr. Marcus H. Cruikshank was Mayor of Talladega during the succession period and the early part of the War. He issued a warning in December of 1860 to the public: "As a measure of precaution and prudence on the part of our citizens, in view of the excitement and apprehension, I would respectfully suggest that each citizen keep a strict patrol over his own premises and servants, and that Negro gatherings be strictly prohibited during the approaching holidays. Patrol companies have been appointed and persons who give their Negroes holidays should provide them with proper passes". (4)

Marcus was heavily involved in the community of Talladega as evidenced in membership in local school systems. His political impact also spanned to the Capital in Montgomery when after the Civil War he was appointed as Commissioner for the Destitute for the State of Alabama.

Marcus was not only a Lawyer but served as Mayor of Talladega and owner of the Watchtower, a weekly Talladega newspaper. Marcus and Henry Sims must have been close friends as they shared so much in common; political affiliations, community involvement and the desire to build and grow Talladega County.

Henry Sims became Marcus's brother-in-law when Henry married his younger sister, Elizabeth (Lizzie) Cruikshank in 1858.

Sad to note, that Marcus died just one month after his mother, Lovedy Cruikshank Estill passed away.

Estate of Marcus, dated December 16, 1881, was valued at $5,000. His son, George M. Cruikshank, over 21, was named Administrator. In addition to Geroge, Marcus was survived by his wife, Mattie, daughters Clara and Margaret, both over 21, and a minor daughter, over 18 but not yet 21, Anna B.Cruikshank.

Many fond memories of Marcus were handed down by previous generatons. Known as "Uncle Marcus" I have interepreted that he had a joyful and wonderful sense of humor. As his political affiliation shows, he was a very energetic, outgoing and well spoken individual. Lisa Allen Baggett October, 2002.

Notes for CLARA E. CRUIKSHANK: Funeral Miss Clara Cruikshank Monday August 20, 1934

Former Beloved Talladega Teacher Died in Atlanta Saturday

The body of Miss Clara Cruikshank, former Talladega school teacher, who died in Atlanta Saturday afternoon, was brought here Sunday for interment.

the funeral was held at the grave Monday afternoon, Rev. William Crowe, Jr. pastor of the First Presbyterian Church officiating. Interment was in Oak Hill cemetery, Jackson & Clardy conducting. Pallbearers were R. Heine, J. L. chambers, H. C. McConnell, Albert H. Todd, Otis R. Burton and J. C. Bowie.

Miss Cruikshank was a native of Talladega, daughter of the late M. H. Cruikshank, attorney and editor of the Watchtower and Reporter weekly newspapers. She taught school at North side school for about 30 years, many Talladega residents having been taught by her during that period. She left Talladega about 20 years ago and went to Birmingham where she resided several years, then went to Atlanta. She is survived by a brother, George M. Cruikshank, of Foley.

Miss Cruikshank was a member of a talented family with which her educational and cultural attainments were in keeping. Her fathers was a member of the Congress of the Confederate States of America and her brother, Geo. M. Cruikshank was former editor of the Birmingham Ledger.

Interesting note: While Clara was teaching at the School for the Blind she boarded at the Jemison Home, 206 East Coffee Street, Talladega, AL. The Jemison Home was run by the ancestors of Mary Lea Jemison Sims, who married Herbert Dark Sims. Herbert is Clara's 1st cousin twice removed.

Notes for HENRY SIMS:

Henry was born in Culpeper Co., Virginia, a son of James Sims and Jane Towles. In addition to Henry, James and Jane had a son Albert Gallatin Sims, James Sims and Oliver Sims. Based on letter from Albert and James it appears that Henry was the third son. The Sims resided in the Devils Run area of Culpeper Co. Devils Run, which is fed by the Hazel River, is located +- 5 miles NW of the town of Culpeper (Off of Route 522) and is very near the Rappahannock County Line.

On August 5, 1837, Henry's brother Albert G. Sims obtained thirty-nine acres (lot or fraction A of fractional Section six in fractional Township of Range four in the District of lands subject to sale at Mardisville, Alabama). Albert, at this time, was living in Talladega County, Alabama. The land grant purchase was issued under certificate number 3636 and recorded in Vol 7, Page 370, in Washington, DC. Martin Van Buren was the President of the United States. On this same day, Henry, through an assignee, Stephen Pail, also obtained land in Mardisville, Alabama (his current residence was not shown). Henry's land was the Southwest Quarter of the North East Quarter of Section thirty-four in fractional Township Twenty of Range Three in the District of Lands subject to sale at Mardisville, Alabama. Henry's land was issued under certificate number 3758 and recorded in Vol 7, Page 493.

It is assumed that shortly after the land grant of 1837, Henry relocated to Mardisville, Talladega, County. Henry is known to have lived in Mardisville during 1844 and 1845 as three letters from his brothers are addressed as such. It is said that he travelled to Talladega County in the company of a Mr. Welch. Mr. Welch was Henry's first cousin, the son of his mothers sister, Ann Towles Terrill. Other family members that migrated to Alabama were the Mallory's who were also Henry's first cousin, by marriage. (Ann Towles Terrill had a son Robert who married Ann Mallory).

Albert, Henry's brother, asked to be remembered to them in his January 2, 1944, letter to Henry. This indeed could be the family of Rev. Oliver Welch, who was born April 17, 1791, in Virginia. Rev. Welch and his family moved to Talladega County in October, 1834, and settled in the area now called Alpine, Alabama. Rev. Welch was a Baptist preacher at Alpine Baptist (formerly Talladega Creek Baptist Church) and served as pastor until his death in 1874. Rev. Welch, and his first wife Elizabeth, had eight children. One of Oliver and Elizabeth's children, William A. Welch (Dr.) moved to Alabama with his parents. From William and his wife, Will Ann Wallace, came several generations of notable Medical Doctors, including Dr. Samuel Welch who was President of the Alabama State Medical Association in 1907 and was the State Health Officer in January, 1917. Another son of Rev. Oliver Welch, was Nathaniel who built the Alpine Plantation, for which the railroad station was named. Nathaniel Welch was married to Elizabeth Terrill, Henry's first cousin on his mother's side.

It is not known how long Albert lived in Talladega however, in 1844 he had relocated to Christian Co., Kentucky. At this time, Albert was married to Eliza and had one son, George Henry. Albert was a very well educated man, from his letters, writing and grammar, and was a gentleman farmer in Kentucky, primarily raising tobacco.

For some years Henry practiced law, afterwards purchasing a large plantation to which he devoted a great deal of attention. He achieved considerable prominence in politics, being one of the leaders of the Whig Party. For several years he held the office of justice of the peace, which at time was an office of considerable importance. In 1863 he was elected a member of the legislature with Lewis E. Parsons and L. W. Lawler and was an elector for the State of Alabama on the Clay ticket at the time of the presidential election between Henry Clay and James K. Polk. He opposed the action of the Southern states that led to the war between the States and after the war became a Democrat. (This information is printed in Notable Men of Alabama, Volume 1, Hon. Joel C. DuBose, Editor, 1904.)

While living in Mardisville, Henry met and married his first wife, Martha Louise Hayes. Albert writes to Henry about his marriage in a letter dated January 2, 1844, "I would be glad if you and your better half could come out and spend the next summer with us. I am anxious to see her, and know her, who was so fortunate as to win your affections, the affections of one, who for a long time seemed so loft to come under the influence of tender emotions."

Henry's first wife died shortly after James Henry was born, in 1846, so therefore it assumed she died as a complication of childbirth. Little is known about where Henry and the children lived until Henry purchased and built a large plantation at Saint Ives, Renfroe, Talladega County, Alabama.

In August of 1858, Henry at the age of 54 married Elizabeth (Lizzie) George Cruikshank, daughter of Lovedy and George Cruikshank and sister of Marcus H. Cruikshank. This was Lizzie's first marriage and she was 28 years old, some 26 years younger than her husband. It has been stated that Henry first met Lizzie when she was a young child as Henry is known to have stayed at Lovedy's Stage Coach Inn, Mardisville, Alabama. Marcus and Henry were also close acquaintances; both involved in the Whig party, both lawyers and both relocated to Talladega when the city became of County Seat as opposed to Mardisville. (Historic Tales of Talladega, Grace Jemison) Henry continued his legal practice however spent a considerable amount of time on his Talladega County plantation and crops. At one point, the plantation included over 1000 acres of land and included St. Ives, the home, a working gin house and school house. The primary crop was cotton which was shipped by rail to Mobile for future sale. The 18x18 "barn" currently (2002) erected across the street from Miriam Dark Sims home, Renfroe Road, Talladega, Alabama was built and located on Henry's plantation.

Henry's plantation, comprised of 1000 acres at its prime, was located in Renfroe, Talladega County, Alabama. (Talladega County road 191 West; left (south) on Stemley Road (Hepzibah Baptist church located at the intersection of 191 and Stemley Road). Travel approximately 1.2 miles to railroad crossing After crossing railroad crossing, Henry's land was located on your right and left for the next .5 mile. The old homestead is located down a dirt road, to your right, 1.4 miles from the intersection of 191 and Stemley Road (.2 miles from railroad crossing). At its prime, the home would have had a stunning eastern view of the Sleeping Giant.

Henry died in 1890, and was buried in Mardisville next to his first wife. This decision to bury Henry next to Martha was made by Henry's sons by Martha (Albert and James).

Henry Obituary, posted in the Talladega Reporter, July 2, 1890 read:

Death of Henry Sims, Esq.

The decease of such a man as Mr. Henry Sims, takes away a landmark from among us. He was a man in his day in every sense of the word. A man of sterling character, of clear judgement, of great information and pure and upright purpose, he was a man whose presence was felt wherever he went. He was a noble specimen of that generation of pioneers nearly all of whom are gone. For forty years or more he has borne a prominent part in the political and public interests of the State and County. Back in the forties (1840's) he represented Talladega county in the State legislature. He was an old line Whig in those days. He was _____ we ever knew. He knew no guile and went forward in the discharge of whatever duty was laid upon him with perfect fidelity and truth.

He dies at his pleasant home at the advanced age of eighty-six. He have lived a long, useful and upright life. For four years he had been an invalid and during all that time, no word of impatience escaped him. It seemed to have been his desire to give his family and friends as little trouble as possible. He faced his last hour with the earnestness, fortitude and resignation with which he met the duties of life. We feel that good and a strong man is gone. He was a member of the Hepzibah Baptist Church, and it needless to say that he was a consistent Christian. (Note from Hugh Sims: Henry Sims came to Talladega County in 1837-When he was an old man was baptized in a chair at Maxwells' Pond.)

A portrait of Henry is located in the hall at the home of Herbert and Mary Lea Sims, 206 East Coffee Street.

Henry and Martha Louise graves are located in Mardisville, Alabama. The cemetery is located on off of Highway 21 South, 2 miles South of Talladega Creek, located up the dirt road on the left immediately following the two historical markers.[JamesSimsJemima.GED]

Notes for CLAUDIA SIMS:

Lisa A. Baggett notes from discussions with Herbert Sims, Mary Lea Sims and Miriam Dark Sims, Annie Laura Sims Porter, Claudia Welch and Jane Harvell during April, 2002.

Claudia never married however, had numerous suitors based on the letters that still remain in the family todote Claudia took over the running of the plantation (located in Talladega County, Alabama) after her Father, Henry Sims, died. I do not know what the exact size of the plantation was at this time, but at one point, it was over 1000 acres.

Cotton appeared to be the major crop and source of income given receipts, etc from the farm and home.

Claudia was known as a "nice and very intelligent" lady. I was told that she rode the plantation wearing guns, so I asume she was also a very strong and assured individual. Many others have stated and therefore confirmed for me that Claudia did indeed run the planatation while riding a white horse and wearing guns. During this time however, neither she nor Aunt Eunice had means to travel into town for provisions, etc. So every Saturday a Mr. Searcy took them into town. It has been told to me that Mr. Searcy asked for compensation for this effort and that "Miss" Claudia gave him a penny. She must have managed her money as strictly and tightly as she did the plantation.

My observations:

After the death of her Mother, Elizabeth (Lizzie) Cruikshank Sims, there appeared to be quite a struggle over the family property and ownership. (Add from legal letters). As Claudia's father had two families, the first with his first wife Martha Louise Hayes Sims (who died shortly after giving birth to her and Henry's second son) and the second from her mother, Lizzie Sims, it appeared the struggle was first family vs second. Henry Sims, and also Lizzie Sims, both died without wills. Martha died at such a young age I would seriously doubt (also as a female in the 1840's) she would have a will or property in her name to bequeath to heirs. (It was usually held in the male's name)

It appears that Claudia took the aggressive role in defining the land ownership and thereby parcelling it out based on her knowledge of the wishes of her parents. (Pasted from Ged-Com by Lisa Baggett 10-19-2002)

Notes for EUNICE SIMS:

At Eunices death, her estate was valued at $25,000.00. After expenditures the balance of the estate was paid in cash to: Elizabeth McDonald, niece, daughter of Mildred Sims McDonald.

Nathlee Cook Cole, niece, daughter of Janette Sims Cook. Lovedia Wood, niece, daughter of Joe Sims.

W. Hugh Sims, nephew, son of Herbert Lee Sims.

Lalia Hethcox, niece, daughter of Herbert Lee Sims. Malcolm Cook, nephew, son of Janette Sims Cook. Virginia Sims, niece, daughter of Joe Sims. Henry Sims, nephew, son of Joe Sims.

While heirs from her father Henry's first marriage were stated in the estate papers, the final settlement did not include distribution to this heirs. (Descendents of Albert G. Sims and James Anthony Sims, sons of Henry Sims and Martha Louisa Hayes Sims.)

Citation from "Notable Men of Alabama Personal and Genealogical" Spartanburg, SC Reprint Co. 1976 944 Pages P. 26 GEORGE M. CRUIKSHANK, editor of the Birmingham Ledger, was born near Lexington, KY, March 15, 1852. His father, MARCUS H. CRUIKSHANK, a native of Alabama, was a distinguished lawyer of Talladega, was a member of the Confederate Congress and served as commissioner of the destitute of the State for several years immediately subsequent to the Civil war. His mother, MATILDA W., was the daughter of Col. JOSEPH H. CHRISMAN, and granddaughter of General MCDOWELL of Revolutionary fame. At the opening of the Civil war, Colonel CHRISMAN, being too old for active service, went to Missouri and acted as drillmaster for Price's army. Mrs. CRUIKSHANK still resides at Talladega. GEORGE M. CRUIKSHANK was reared at Talladega, attended the schools of that city and was graduated from the academies there with degree of bachelor of arts. For many years he was engaged in teaching at Talladega, and at the same time devoting himself to reading and the higher studies. In 1883 he removed to Birmingham to become editor of the Birmingham Chronicle, and continued as same for several years. From 1890 to 1893 he was superintendent of house folding room to National Congress, at Washington, D. C. In 1893 he resigned the position to become assistant postmaster of Birmingham and served as such for four years. In June, 1897, he became editor of the Birmingham Ledger, then a small paper, and its growth under his editorship has been phenomenal. It now has a circulation of 18,000, a new $25,000 press, and is one of the best papers in the South. It has press capacity enough to print all the newspapers published in the State. MR. CRUIKSHANK is a Master Mason, a Presbyterian, a member of the Alabama Press association, of the Birmingham Press club, and the Commercial club of Birmingham, and president of the Birmingham Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. He was married in Birmingham, Oct. 7, 1887, to MARY R., daughter of MATTHEW T. SMITH, and has two children, MARY GEORGE, and MARCUS. MR. CRUIKSHANK is a strong and interesting writer, being especially gifted in the presentation of the lives of the men and women who have made the wonderful history of Alabama.

GEORGE M. CRUIKSHANK

Young men lead and control many of the leading enterprises of Birmingham. The glittering prospects of fame and fortune have lured many of the brightest and boldest of Alabama's young men to Birmingham. The New South has a great attraction for men who want to abandon the past and keep pace with the spirit of the age, and the recognition of Birmingham as the center of that influence has brought to her streets the hope of many of Alabama's town. In this spirit came GEORGE M. CRUIKSHANK, the subject of this sketch.

He was reared and educated at Talladega, and, soon after his maturity, was elected principal of the blind department of the State institution for the deaf, dumb, and blind. This position he held for six years, when the death of his father compelled him to resign, and lead a more active life. He then began the practice of law, and took editorial charge of the Reporter, succeeding his father. Soon after this he was appointed general administrator of Talladega County, and held that office for two years, when he came to Birmingham. He came here to enter journalism professionally, for that pursuit had thrown an enchantment around him too powerful to be resisted.

coming here, MR. CRUIKSHANK at once bought an interest in the Chronicle, with F. V. Evans, and became its editor, and soon afterward, in partnership with Mr. Evans and Mr. Grace, founded the Evening Chronicle. He has continued to do its editorial work since then. His policy has consistently been to stand close by the people, and to urge every line of policy proposed for the good of the people. this policy has made the Chronicle very popular at home, and its influence has been recognized in the district and the State. He, with Mr. D. B. Grace, now owns the paper, and they are devotedly at work adding to its usefulness.

MR. CRUIKSHANK is the only son of the late M.H. CRUIKSHANK, of Talladega, who was a member of the Confederate Congress, a lawyer of distinction, a fluent writer, and a man of stainless honor.

Few men, just entering the "thirties", have so bright a future as is now promised this young editor, who has already won an honorable place in his profession. He is well equipped for his life-work with a liberal education and a broad course of reading. Owning a well-established paper, he and his partner, Mr. Grace, are accounted tow of the successful young men of Birmingham.

Obituary:

FUNERAL SATURDAY FOR HERBERT L. SIMS Well Known County Farmer Was A Victim of Pneumonia
Herbert Lee Sims, 70, well known retired farmer, died at 9:30 Friday night after one week's illness with pneumonia. He had been in ill health for several years.

The funeral services were held at Hephzibah Baptist Church Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Dr. J. M. Thomas, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Talladega, officiating. Internment was in the Hephzibah cemetery. Usrey conducting.

Mr. Sims had lived at Renfroe all his life. He was born on January 16, 1864. He was active in the civic and political life of the community for many years.

Surviving are one son, W. H. Sims, one daughter, Mrs. Roy Hethcox, Talladega, three sister Claudia and Eunice Sims and Mrs. Mildred McDonald and one brother, J. T. Sims, Alpine.

Comments about Herbert Lee Sims from Miriam Dark Sims (daughter-in-law) to Lisa A. Baggett 4/2002:

Mr. Herbert was very nice to me, very very nice. He never imposed on us and was real intelligent. Mr. Herbert told me that he picked me out to marry his son after what Hugh had told him about me. He lived on a home near the river (Stemley Road Area) and loved my coconut pies. I would make pies for him, place them on a board, and Hugh would carry them to him during his mail route.

When Herbert Lee Sims died, he laid in state (his body) in the living room of Miriam and Hugh Sims. Memaw stated that they did not have funerals in that time, so this was a natural/normal part of the funeral process to have the body in view, at home, for visitors. She remembered there was a grave side service conducted when he was buried at the church. It was also told to me that someone did not like the suit Herbert Lee was dressed in originally after death so they dressed him in another suit of their liking prior to the viewing.

Herbert was very involved in the Democratic Party and was appointed a member of the County Campaign Committee in 1910, with Emmet O'Neal the parties nominee for Alabama Governor.

Mr. Herbert, as he was known in later years, was also known to be quite a character. He always wore a long black trench coat, summer, fall, winter and spring. It was said he wore this to cover a bulging hernia he had in later years. He lived on Stemley Road in the home that is currently located on the property across from Miriam Sims.

As a younger man, he also enjoyed in his weekly journey from his home in the Stemley Road area to the city of Talladega where he participated in good conversation, political debates and spirits at the local tavern. He once borrowed his father-in-laws horse for the journey but accidently left the horse in "town" and walked home. Most of the time, he walked to and from town.

At the time of his wife's death, as was the tradition in those days, the 3 children were raised by their maternal Grandparents. I am not sure what type of role Herbert took in raising the children.(Pasted from Ged-Com by Lisa Baggett 10-19-2002)

Notes for MAGGIE ALICE HENLEY:

Discussion with Miriam Dark Sims 4/5/2002 (age 99) at home, Renfroe, Talladega, AL:

Hugh's Mother died of "terminal under nourishment" (would be Maggie Alice Henley Sims who died in 1902 at the age of 28). Also stated that Maggie was bedridden for several years prior to her death. Hugh (Maggie's son, Miriam's husband) told Miriam (aka Me maw) that he remembered his Mother reaching out her arms to him (when she was in bed) to beckon him to come to her so she could hold him.

Discussion with Annie Laurie Sims Porter 4/2002: Stated that Maggie had died of TB, as did 2 of her sisters. It is believed that TB was contracted due to poor diet and undernourishment.

Notes for LALIA SIMS:

When Lalia, Hugh and Ada's mother died (Maggie Alice Henley Sims) the children were:

Lalia: would have been 7 years old Ada: would have been 6 years old Hugh: would have been 4 years old Maggie was 28 when she died.

As was the custom in those days, the father rarely raised children by themselves. I asked my Grandmother, Miriam Dark Sims, today (4/5/2002) who raised the children. She stated that Maggie's parents (Mr. and Mrs. Henley, Renfroe, Alabama) raised them. (For more information on Mr. and Mrs. Henley refer to Family Tree for exact names, DOB, DOD, other children, etc)

Notes for ROY L. HETHCOX:

Roy was the beloved husband of Lalia Sims. They lived at 200 Jemison Street, Talladega, Alabama.

Roy was employed as a rural mail carrier for 25 years on Route 1, Talladega. Roy was interested in outdoor life and spent a great deal of time fishing. Lalia remained at their home until her death.

While Roy and Lalia did not have children of their own, they were both loved by all of their nieces and nephews. Roy and Lalia spent a lot of time traveling to Florida, where they had dear friends and Roy fished, and to Wyoming to visit with "Cousin Albert" Sims (James father; Henry Sims grandfather).

Roy suffered a heart attack while fishing. He made it back to shore but subsequently died of heart failure at Citizens Hospital. Rev Oscar Mitchell, pastor at Hepzibah and Dr. William Crowe, First Presbyterian Church, officiated at funeral.

Active pallbearers were George Porter, Jr., Albert Hethcox, Billy W. Hethcox, Edward Nixon and Arthur F. Henley.

Honorary pallbearers were Ed Rozelle, Louie Hubbard, John Roberts, Tom. R. Parker, Dr. C. L. Salter, Dr.
