Dad,

Now That I'm Older ...

From the time that I was small,
I looked up to you.
And now that I've grown up,
You're the hero, I never outgrew.

From sitting atop giant shoulders,
To see above the crowd.
To swinging from strong arms,
And hanging upside down.

To running alongside my bike,
To teaching strength when I would fall.
To insisting I work hard in school,
To loving me through it all.

Growing up is often hard,
Dad, your presence lit my way.
You led me along life's path,
Beside me all the way.

I want to say I love you,
For all the years together we have had.
In my heart you are my hero,
All my life you are my Dad.
