In Loving Memory of

Charles Walter Mayes III
July 5, 1982 - April 20, 2002

I REMEMBER

I remember you just loved to drive,
You made your race car come alive.
I remember you were so young,
You were just having fun.

I remember how your beautiful face
Lit up when you won a race.
I remember you smiled so sweetly,
Even when you got beat.

I remember your green eyes so intense,
Sometimes you made no sense.
I remember your drive so strong,
You thought you were never wrong.

I remember how badly you wanted to win,
That meant beating your best friend.
I remember you had no fears,
Even when switching gears.

I remember the horror of your accident
I remember how everyone cried,
Not believing that you had died.
I remember the sadness,
A black hole in the darkness.

But these things always are,
In spirit, you'll be there,
Laughing with use,
Even though you're not here.

I know you're smiling from heaven above,
Looking down with lots of love.
