I DREAMED OF DADDY

I dreamed of daddy at supper time,
After a long day of labor,
He looks so tired ...
Look again, yes, I see love,
And pride in his face.

I dreamed of daddy resting,
Late in the evening,
Just as the sun is setting.
With his kids playing all around him.
The peace in knowing he's done his best.
And all is safe for another day.

I dreamed of daddy teasing, playing pranks,
And giving our dates a hard time.
The way he joined in our learning to dance.

I dreamed of daddy with his grandchildren,
The joy, pride and love they found there.
He played as one of them,
And yet taught them so much.

I dreamed of daddy fishing,
He loved to fish.
He loved to take his grandkids fishing,
Loved teaching and helping them fish.
And the feast when he returned.

I dreamed of daddy's hands,
Working and building with wood.
First so agile and sure.
They grow old and slow,
But still sure and true.
And when he's finished
Its just right and beautiful.

I dreamed of daddy his eyes so dim.
Waiting, not able to move.
I still see that love and pride,
I hope he sees it reflected back
Seven time more.

I really miss that face,
And what I found there.
Except in my memory
And my dreams at night.
