

Ode-Air, Naomi

Here Death his sacred seal hath set,
On bright and bygone hours;
The dead we mourn are with us yet,
And-more than ever-ours!

Ours, by the pledge of love and faith;
By hopes of heaven on high;
By trust, triumphant over death,
In immortality.

The dead are like the stars by day,
Withdrawn from mortal eye;
Yet holding unperceived their way
Through the unclouded sky.

By them, through holy hope and love,
We feel, in hours, serene,
Connected with the Lodge above,
Immortal and unseen.

Most Glorious God, Author of all good and Giver of all mercy, pour down Thy blessings upon us, and strengthen our solemn engagements with the ties of sincere affection. May the present instance of mortality remind us of our own approaching fate, and, by drawing our attention toward Thee, the only refuge in time of need, may we be induced to so regulate our conduct here that when the awful moment shall arrive at which we must quit this transitory scene, the enlivening prospect of Thy mercy may dispel the gloom of death, and that after our departure hence in peace and Thy favor, we may be received into Thine everlasting kingdom, and there join in union with our friends, and enjoy that uninterrupted and unceasing felicity which is allotted to the souls of just men made perfect. Amen.

Your Spirit - A tribute to our Father

We know that no matter what
You will always be with us
When life separates us
We will know it is only your soul
Saying goodbye to your body
But your spirit will be with us always.
When we see a bird chirping on a nearby branch
We will know it is you singing to us.
When a butterfly brushes gently by us so care freely
We will know it is you assuring us you are free from pain.
When the gentle fragrance of a flower catches our attention
We will know it is you reminding us
To appreciate the simple things in life.
When the sun shining through our window
awakens us
We will feel the warmth of your love.
When we hear the rain pitter patter against our window sill
We will hear your words of wisdom
And will remember what you taught us so well
That without rain trees cannot grow
Without rain flowers cannot bloom
Without life's challenges we cannot grow strong.
When we look out to the sea
We will think of your endless love for your family.
When we think of mountains, their majesty and magnificence
We will think of your courage for your country.
No matter where we are
Your spirit will be beside us
For we know that no matter what
You will always be with us.

APPRECIATION

On behalf of the family, we wish to express their gratitude for your many acts of kindness, and for your attendance at the funeral service.

Levert E. Stringfellow ("Lee"), 77, of Farmington, Arkansas passed away February 8, 2024 after complications associated with a stroke.

Born October 28, 1946 in Shreveport, Louisiana and known for his infectious laugh and his commitment to living life his way. Lee dedicated his life to his business, Stringfellow and Associates, his family, and friends. He was known for surrounding himself with a crowd of friends and enjoyed having lively conversations. Lee was also a dedicated and loyal member of the Lincoln 615 Masonic Lodge in Lincoln, AR.

Lee is survived by his beloved son, Brian E. Stringfellow (Julianne), and his grandchildren, Chambers, Caitlyn, and Cannon Stringfellow. He is also survived by his brother, Joseph W. Stringfellow (Angelia), his niece, Ashley S. Murphy, his great niece and nephew, Kelly Murphy and Cole Murphy, as well as his most trustworthy confidants and highly respected business associates, James "JB" Williams and Steve White. Additionally, Lee had lifelong friendships with Andy Nichols and Joe Watson, and was like a grandfather to Jansen Williams, and had many longtime friends in the Fayetteville, Farmington, Prairie Grove, and Lincoln area. He was preceded in death by his mother, Anna Louise Johnson, his father, Charles Chambers Stringfellow, his stepfather, Cass D. Johnson, his aunt, Sydney E. Love, and his uncles, E.J. and Edward L. Coen.

Lee graduated high school at the age of 16 from Jefferson Military Academy and later obtained a Bachelor of Science degree from Louisiana State University. He proudly served in the US Navy as a submariner on the USS Greenfish Submarine, during the Vietnam War and was a member of the Navy's marksmanship team.

In his professional life, Lee was the founder of Stringfellow and Associates in Farmington, AR. Outside of work, he had a variety of hobbies, including collecting guns and knives, dove hunting, watching spaghetti westerns and old wartime films, and cheering on the LSU Fighting Tigers football team. Lee also cherished spending time with his son and visiting his grandchildren in Florida. As a loyal and dedicated member of the Masonic Fraternity, Lee embraced the duties and responsibilities as a Grand Commander of Knights Templar of Arkansas (2011); he was also a member of the Red Cross of Constantine, Allied Masonic Degrees, Scottish Rite, Far West Chapter #1, Paul Bush Council #80, Baldwin Commandery #4, Lincoln Lodge #615, Occidental Lodge #435, Washington #1, and the Caddo Lodge #179 in Shreveport, La., which is a list of his most cherished memberships.
